VIÑA ARBOLEDA AWARDED WITH TWO GOLD MEDALS AT SAKURA JAPAN WOMEN'S WINE AWARDS 2020

Two wines from Viña Arboleda have once again been awarded with Gold Medals, after dazzling the Japanese female palate.

During the latest edition of the Sakura Japan Women's Wine Awards, a red and a white wine from the winery located in the appellation Aconcagua Valley, were honored after the evaluation of a demanding group of judges which highlighted their excellent pairing potential to Japanese cuisine.

Arboleda Syrah 2016 was praised with Gold Medal by the judges, who were surprised by the striking fresh and tasty flavors of this wine, which was aged for 12 months in French oak barrels.

Likewise, the female judges also opted for the Chardonnay variety of Arboleda, whose 2017 vintage was also granted a Gold Medal. This wine, coming from the coastal area of the Aconcagua Valley, stands out for its great balance and its elegant and delicate structure, qualities that make it a great wine to pair with Japanese cuisine as well.

ABOUT THE CONTEST

Sakura Japan Women's Wine Awards is a contest created by Yumi Tanabe, one of the most prominent and influential specialized wine journalists in Japan, whose relevance is also recognized worldwide. This contest honors wines in Japan, where women are the main protagonists, as the jury is 100% female. The contest is also the perfect platform for participating wineries to launch and promote their wines in the demanding Japanese market. In its latest 2020 version, a total of 4,326 samples from 34 different countries were presented, being one of the most important wine events at an international level.
